Lester Paldy

Former CIA officer, contractor, and currently Distinguished Service Professor Emeritus of Physics at Stony Brook University. He has assisted and taught at CIA and FBI for 28 years and was awarded the Agency Seal Medal for missions targeting scientists in hostile environments. Les is believed to be the only CIA officer to have gotten inside three of China's nuclear weapon research laboratories and one of its technical espionage training units. He was awarded the George Washington Medal for exceptional service to the nation and is the author of "No Cloak, No Dagger: An Academic at the CIA." He is a former Marine Corps infantry officer. He has been a regular speaker at the FBI Academy Counterintelligence Training Center and is believed to be the oldest man to have attempted to run the Marine Officer Candidate Leadership obstacle course at Quantico. He found it to be much harder in his 80s than it was when he was 20.
